Supreme HRL Visits

Supreme Honored Royal Lady Judy Gillis (left) was welcomed to Elk Point by HRL Mary Kryvenchuk.

Elk Point Order of the Royal Purple was honored last week with a visit from the OORP's national leader, Supreme Honored Royal Lady Judy Gillis of Moosomin, Saskatchewan.

SHRL Gillis visited an October 31 meeting of the Lodge as part of her five week tour of lodges in Alberta and British Columbia.

"We have to toot our horn and tell people what we do," she told the members. "When we give people money, let's invite them to our meetings and let them see what we're all about."

SHRL Gillis said that her motto for the membership during her one year term is "Taking pride in our membership in OORP and being proud to be members." OORP has changed in many ways in recent years to accommodate the changing lifestyle of today's women, and this needs to be communicated to the public and to potential members.

"We should be aggressively positive when we talk about OORP, and be proud of what we do for our lodge," in order to recruit new members, she urged.

Another suggestion was that the lodge have an active publicity committee, which would make sure that writeups of events and photos of donations get in the local paper. "People want to know where their money goes."

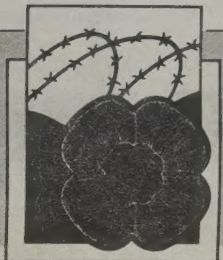

SHRL Gillis related her adventures as part of the 35th anniversary celebrations of the Purple Cross Fund, which saw marathon runner Al Howie run across Canada to raise funds for this most worthy cause. She and Past SHRL Joyce Hall took part in the run in Kelowna, BC. While the run is over, and was successful, she said the Purple Cross Fund would still be happy to take donations, and she hoped that the lodge's donation to Purple Cross would be as large as the total amount given to all other charities. "The health care dollar is not as strong as in the past," she said, and solicitations have doubled.

A good relationship with the Elks Lodge "will be a strength in the future," SHRL Gillis said, adding that a pattern for having joint meetings in communities which have both lodges, is now being refined. This would have joint opening, separate business meetings, then the lodges coming back together to deal with business pertaining to both, and joint closing. "Seeing Elks and OORP working together in harmony will be important in our future."

SHRL Gillis complimented HRL Mary Kryvenchuk on her smooth running meeting, and on the piano accompaniment so ably provided by Lady Sharon Algot. She told the group about the cookbook now being produced by OORP, which will be sold in bookstores and gift shops as well as in lodges, as a fundraiser for Supreme Lodge, and also urged the lodge to send representatives to the 1992 Convention in North Bay, Ontario, where decisions affecting the whole Order are made.

Town projects completed

The end of summer saw the completion of both the children's playground at the Recreation Land and of the two years of work on Mural Park. The playground will be ready for 1992 visitors to the Rec Land, thanks to Municipal Recreation and Tourism Area and Recreation, Parks and Wildlife grant funding, while a large portion of the cost of Mural Park came from the Tourism Action Plan funding. With the fencing on the latter project now in place, the Mural Park Committee may apply for their final portion of the grant, which will add details such as tree planting to the site.

Town Council's October 28 meeting heard an update from the Bicentennial Committee. Bicentennial Coordinator Billie Milholland was scheduled to spread the word of the great event across Canada when she was interviewed on Peter Gzowski's Morningside show on CBC Radio October 31, while plans for the November 8 dedication of the Peter Fidler statue and the December 6 Bicentennial Kick-off and Merchants' Extravaganza are coming along very well. The Bicentennial Committee has now received Community Initiatives Funding which allowed them to repay the seed money they borrowed from the Town to initiate the statue project and to start up their office.

Community Futures has several projects underway which involve Elk Point, including a tourist-oriented fun map, and the Import Replacement Program.

Information pertaining to a suggested change in the assessment process was brought to Council. In order to have uniform standards for property value assessment across the province, an Alberta Assessment Corporation could be set up. An information session on this was scheduled for St. Paul October 30, and the Administrator was asked to attend to voice the Town's concerns that this move could be considerably more costly to municipalities such as Elk Point.

A letter seeking the Town's cooperation in obtaining a source of water to permit installation of grass greens at Elk Point Golf and Country Club was received. The Town will ask the Club for further details such as quantities required, availability of a natural reservoir, etc.

Elk Point has once again been given an opportunity to apply for a Regional Response Improvement Program grant for a rescue van. Although the Fire Department has purchased a van, the funds could be put to good use to outfit it, Council felt, and will contact the Fire Department prior to applying.

A letter of thanks has been received from the Canada Day Committee, thanking the Town for both funding and participating in the celebration.

Following a review of AUMA statistics, Council passed a motion to increase the honoraria for attending committee meetings from $25 to $30, with 4 councillors in favor and 2 opposed.

A municipal law bulletin with amendments to the Municipal Government Act was studied and discussed by Council.

Opportunities to meet delegation

Area residents will have three opportunities to meet and converse with the delegation from the federal riding of Roberval, Quebec, when they visit Beaver River riding later this week.

The Town of St. Paul is hosting a luncheon for the visitors at 12:00 noon on Friday, November 8, at the Corfu Restaurant's banquet room, with the public invited to attend.

Later that afternoon, the delegation will travel to Elk Point, where they will be in attendance for the dedication of the statue of explorer Peter Fidler, as well as going on a tour of the town. A dinner in their honor will be co-hosted by the Town of Elk Point and the Elk Point and District Chamber of Commerce at 6:00 p.m. in the Empress Banquet Room. The public is invited to attend the dinner (at regular menu prices) and to hear and take part in the informal discussions which follow.

Saturday will see the delegation in Lloydminster, where the public is welcome to attend a free workshop and panel discussion on "Shaping Canada's Future" from 1:30 to 5:00 p.m. at Lakeland College. External Affairs Minister Joe Clark, Minister of National Health and Welfare Benoit Bouchard and Deputy Prime Minister Don Mazankowski will be in attendance at this event, aimed at wrapping up what Albertans and their Quebec counterparts have learned about each other during the tour of Vegreville and Beaver River ridings. A western social with casual dress will be held later that evening, once again with the public invited.

Peter Fidler statue dedication Friday

On a cold and snowy November 8, 1792, surveyor Peter Fidler filled his packs with provisions and left the just completed Hudson's Bay Company fur trading fort, Buckingham House, to make his way between chunks of floating ice as he crossed the frigid waters of the North Saskatchewan River, climb the timbered south bank, and set off to the south and west on a journey which would take him all the way to the Old Man River in what is now southern Alberta, before he returned to Buckingham House four months and eleven days later.

One hundred and ninety nine years later, to the day, Peter Fidler will once again stand looking over the valley of the North Saskatchewan. A thirty foot carved cedar statue of one of this area's most famous explorers is to be dedicated Friday, November 8, 1991, at 4:00 p.m. The statue, with its stockade gate background, is located at the north entrance to Elk Point on Highway 41.

The dedication will take the form of a short ceremony which includes the ceremonial burning of sweet grass by one of Fidler's descendants, and a black powder cannon salute, after which those present are invited for complimentary coffee or soft drinks at the Hilltop Cafe.

The statue is the creation of St. Paul artisan Herman Poulin, who joined a series of huge timbers together, then undertook the painstaking effort of carving the resulting block into the giant representation of the explorer.

Among those present for the ceremony will be a group of visitors from Quebec, one of whom is Poulin's cousin. The Quebec visitors are touring the Vegreville and Beaver River federal ridings as part of an exchange program with their home riding of Roberval, and will be in Elk Point for the dedication and for a dinner sponsored jointly by the Town of Elk Point and the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce.

Family violence prevention month

The Power Of Communication:

Many people do not learn to talk about their anger. They end up dealing with it in many different ways. Some people go for a long run, others withdraw, some sulk. These are not necessarily bad ways of dealing with anger, but if people don't eventually talk about it, the anger can build inside until the person finally blows up, increasing the likelihood of abuse.

On the other hand, people who are able to deal constructively with their anger often come from families where it was okay to get angry, and to talk about that anger, but not okay to act it out physically.

People often don't understand that anger can mask other emotions such as fear and hurt. By talking, people can discover the other feelings that the anger is covering up.

Talking can also help solve the problem that created the anger in the first place. But even if the problem is not solved, anger tends to 'evaporate' as people talk.

Even though it is difficult to learn new ways of dealing with anger, it is not impossible. Here are some 'anger control' tips that could help all of us:

Don't wait longer than a day to talk about your anger, and make sure you pick the appropriate time and the appropriate person. For example, it is often better to express your anger to a neutral person, someone other than the person you are angry with, who can listen and respond without becoming involved in the argument.

It also helps to take a time out when you recognize you are getting angry. Go for a walk, take a shower, bake some cookies. Do whatever works for you.

Talk yourself down. Try to figure out why you are angry. Are you really angry or are there other feelings there?

Then talk it out. Use 'I statements' such as "I feel angry because..." That way, you avoid putting the other person on the defensive. It also indicates you understand that you control your own anger.

Understanding that you control your own emotions is a difficult concept for most people to put into practice, but crucial to dealing constructively with anger.

What is important to remember is that if you express your emotions appropriately at the right time, to the right person, then you won't hurt yourself or someone you love.

These are only a few of the many committees to volunteer for during the Winter Games. Call Rhea at 645-3980 for more information.

Momentum is gaining as the February 7, 1992 weekend quickly approaches. Community Services is excited about the opportunity to participate in the Winter Games. The Elk Point Regional Park (Rec Land) will be hosting the Biathlon and Cross Country Ski events.

The Games committee is quick to point out that Elk Point's participation is expected to provide a variety of spin off benefits for the community.

If you have any questions or would like more information, call Terri at 724-3800.

Jack and Jill Playschool

Little Red Riding Hood, Raggedy Ann, clowns, witches, dragons and lions (to name but a few) partied away the Halloween afternoon at Community Services.

Pin the Tail on the Witch, pumpkin carving, Halloween cookie decorating, makeup application, bobbing for donut holes and bean bag throwing were some of the activities these ghosts and goblins enjoyed. Music, games and movies were also a part of the afternoon's fun.

Very special thanks are extended to all the parents who contributed and participated to make the afternoon a success.

Remembrance Day schedule of events

It is once again time to remember all those who gave their lives in the two world wars and in the Korean War, to preserve our freedom. Elk Point's schedule for Remembrance Day 1991 has the parade formation on the south side of the Co-op Store at 10:30 a.m., from which the parade will proceed north on Main Street to 50 Avenue, then west past the Reviewing Stand in front of the Post Office, turning south on 51 Street to arrive at the Cenotaph shortly before 11:00 a.m. Following the cenotaph service and laying of wreaths, the assembly will move indoors into the Pioneer Circle Hall for an interdenominational service of worship. This will be followed by a lunch provided by the Royal Canadian Legion. The public is cordially invited to attend this annual event.

In Our View

Our precious families

It's not hard to picture a "precious family" when it is a tender babe wrapped in a blanket, smelling of talc, and cuddled in our arms, satin skin and downy hair and the tiny clutching fingers twined around our own.

Nor is it too long a stretch for our imaginations, when it's a toddler, crying from one of the bumps of life, or bringing you a fresh spring flower to admire...or just a hug of love.

Even a secret hug from a teenager, delivered in passing, with the hope that no one saw them do it, but delivering to a parent the knowledge that he or she is loved and appreciated - if only at that moment - between rebellions and the desperate urge to shake off the fetters of 'family ties' and the need to prove they can do it on their own.

The years go by. The family scatters. Sometimes parents feel they are no longer necessary or appreciated or even loved. Youngsters are so busy getting their own lives in shape to suit them, climbing their own ladders, building their own nests, that they may neglect to toss out that morsel of thought or action that tells a parent that they are not forgotten, but surely important still, and still loved.

Christmas is a time for families to gather, to renew ties, catch up on news, make contact. Thanksgiving is another such time, when we tend to gather round the festive board, when scattered children come home, if they can, and memories of Mother's cooking dance in their heads. Absence may or may not make the heart grow fonder, but the passing years can weave a web of dreams around the memories of good times known when we were young. And when we were young is when we were at home, and Mother's cooking was often the stuff of our dreams.

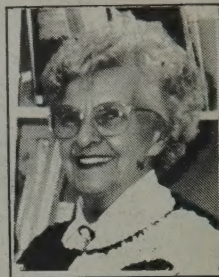

For one thing, kids are always hungry, and when do we appreciate the joys of hot spicy food, the aroma of pancakes on the griddle, golden loaves fresh from the oven, the sagey scent of stuffing, the apple and cinnamon joys of a pie bubbling over, the frizzle of bacon frying? Oh, it was when we were ravenous youngsters, our growing bodies craving sustenance, our unjaded appetites eager to devour anything in sight - and often some bits and pieces Mother may have tried to squirrel away for tomorrow's lunches.

One of my own such fabulous memories - I can bring it to life by merely closing my eyes - is the lot of us swarming in from our two mile walk home from school, and Mother has just taken the pans of bread from the oven (she used big pans, three or four large loaves in each, usually an oven full, plus pans of cinnamon buns, or raisin buns) and she'd try to chase us off the fresh warm bread, by saying it was too warm to cut, and we'd squash the loaf.

Ha, ha! Guess who wanted to squash the loaf?! We'd whine and plead our intense hunger, 'til she finally would say, "One loaf only!" and we'd hack it up, inch-thick slices, spread it with butter, and usually, brown sugar, sometimes only cinnamon, rarely jam, and wolf it down. The warm bread melted the butter, or brown sugar, and our stomachs applauded. Oh, how sweet it was!

Alberta Trails

By Irene Magnusson

Someone else has such memories of tasting the food of the gods, a son intent on a visit home. He was anticipating Thanksgiving in his mother's home, so wanted to alert her. He sent this card, with a "Happy Thanksgiving" greeting on the front. Within he penned these words:

"Dear Mom,

I hope this card finds you busy in your kitchen preparing delightful, delectable delicacies, to be devoutly devoured by your devoted descendants. Do not dillydally, or become discombobulated in your culinary crusade to conjure up a cauldron of carefully crafted cuisine.

"Use all your tenacity, tricks, trances and talents to work at a terrific, tireless tempo to prepare for our time honored tradition with the turkey!

"See ya soon,

Love, (son)."

The closing sentiment on the card reads, "May you Gobble Till You Wobble!"

And I have to ask, what mother receiving such a tender loving request, could hesitate to break all her records in preparing a festive feast, tasty and toothsome? It's nice to be appreciated. I'm betting the results were surely worth the effort!

So I know Thanksgiving is past, for this year, but there are really no date-limits, or time-limits on when an appreciative family member can express that appreciation. Mothers - and fathers, too - would be so glad to receive a bit of praise, either before or after the fact, for the many loving hours they have spent in preparing food or comfort for their offspring, and that's not to say they EXPECT praise, or plead for it; it could come as a wonderful surprise, a heart-warming gift of love at any time, and will surely be appreciated.

As a matter of fact, that goes for any family member, brothers and sisters, aunts and uncles, grandparents and children alike. We ALL like to be appreciated, and loved, and most of us know we are, but it surely sounds good when we hear it right out loud, or see it on a written page. Our families are very precious, and we love them like none other. Let's be sure to tell them, now and then.

Donations can make difference

Dear Editor:

The Canadian Cancer Society, in existence for over 50 years, has a mission to end cancer and to enhance the quality of life of people living with cancer. This mission is carried out in our three program areas by providing cancer research, public education and patient services.

The Canadian Cancer Society does not receive government or United Way funds and relies totally on public support to carry out these objectives. We are grateful for your generous donations made over the past thirty years to our door to door campaign and April daffodil sales.

Your donations have made a difference! This is especially true for the remarkable progress made in the treatment of childhood leukemia and Hodgkins disease.

As the cost of funding research and providing our community programs continues to escalate, we find it necessary to ask you

What is a Canadian?

The Canadian Constitution was on the agenda at last Monday's Town Council meeting, and this led to a discussion of "what is a Canadian?"

The Canadian identity is obviously an illusive one, although one councillor felt that the average Canadian would have less problem with defining this than politicians seem to. Canadians were seen as people who respect each other and strive for human rights, and who should all have the same rights and privileges. Canadians were also seen to be "soft service oriented" as compared to our American neighbors who are hard service oriented and "want to see what they are getting," preferring to spend money on such hardware as aircraft carriers rather than soft services such as social programs.

A major problem was seen to be the 'hyphenated Canadian,' when we should all "be Canadian, period." Keeping family (ie. cultural) customs was seen as an important right, and not as a barrier to being Canadian.

It was also suggested that we should not think as individual provinces, but as a nation. The USA was once again used as an example, having its population split geographically in the case of Hawaii, Puerto Rico and Alaska, but each of those states still filled with residents who nonetheless consider themselves Americans and who have no urge to split apart from the mainland.

Obviously, there is more to being Canadian than saying "eh?" a lot, and eating back bacon cooked on a camp stove while wearing a toque and a plaid wool shirt. It's listening to NHL hockey on the CBC channel while you're watching the action at the curling rink, and eating won ton soup and apple pie at the cafe. It's houses with stucco on the top, horizontal wood siding on the bottom and quite often no steps leading to the never-used front door. It's pickup trucks on Main Street, Northern Lights sweeping the night sky, racing chuckwagons raising the dust, big fish leaping in pine-ringed lakes, giant bucketwheels digging up oilsands, miners delving for the riches of the earth's depths, loggers felling forest giants, combines in prairie wheatfields and fishing boats harvesting coastal waters. It's the CN Tower, Mount Royal, Green Gables, the Empress Hotel, Parliament Hill. It's the Rockies, the Canadian Shield and Niagara Falls. And it's people from many ethnic backgrounds who have come together to make one country, and to call it home.

BICENTENNIAL

Plans for the first major event of the year long celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of Fort George and Buckingham Houses are getting more exciting by the minute, as the Bicentennial Society and the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce work together on plans for the Bicentennial Kick-off and Christmas Extravaganza, Friday, December 6.

By 4:00 p.m. that afternoon, streets will be blocked off in preparation for the event, and spectators will start to line the sidewalks in readiness for the 4:30 arrival of a string of racing dogsleds bearing the Bicentennial banner and carrying a series of distinguished guests into town for the celebration. Minister of Culture Doug Main, Minister of Parks and Recreation Steven West, MP Deborah Grey and MLA John Drobot are among those invited to take part.

The dogsleds will later be available for rides by the general public, with the pick-up and drop-off point at the Community Services Building. A nominal fee will be charged to offset the cost of bringing in the dogsleds. This year, the dogsleds will be touring the school grounds from 5:00 to 9:00 p.m.

Horse-drawn hayrides (5:00 to 9:00 p.m.), a fiddler in fur trade garb who pays musical visits to all the stores, sales and specials to delight the shoppers, and the popular merchants' bingo will turn Elk Point's Main Street into a busy, happy place.

Elk Point Scouting Association are hosting a Fur Trappers Supper in the Elks Hall from 5:00 to 8:00 p.m., with such old-time foods as pea soup, bannock and stew on the menu.

Following the lighting of the now-traditional Extravaganza bonfire, the dignitaries will attend the supper, where there will be several brief speeches and the presentation of prizes to the winners of the Snow Fort competition, which will be judged earlier that afternoon.

Back by the bonfire, Santa Claus will be on hand to visit with the youngsters from 6:00 to 9:00 p.m. From 9:00 to 11:00 p.m., stage entertainment is being planned near the bonfire, and at 11:00 p.m., draws will be made for the Extravaganza Bingo prizes.

More events are in the planning stages, including a Snowshoe Scavenger Hunt for the youngsters, a field pea display at the Fur Trappers Supper, and possibly a Farmers Market. Watch for further information as we add to the Kick-off calendar! If you have any ideas which you feel would add to the event, please call the Bicentennial Headquarters at 724-2620.

Holthes celebrate 50th anniversary

Irene Magnusson

Another well known local couple has marked their 50th Wedding Anniversary. Sid and Muriel Holthe, their five children, various other relatives and a packed hall full of friends celebrated on Saturday, October 26, 1991 in the Seniors' Recreation Centre at Elk Point.

Under the guidance of MC, son Edward of Calgary, guests were drawn back through a merry round of Norwegian jokes, up to introductions of special guests present.

Lorraine Mazankowski

brought greetings from her husband Don, and best wishes for the happy couple. Regrettably, his duties kept him in Ottawa.

John Drobot, MLA, extended greetings, and the gift of a beautifully decorated photo album, then finished up with a poem (of a wedding) which we suspect is his own composition.

Lois Nichols, friend and neighbor to them from childhood, delivered an amusing and colorful description of the courting days of the young couple, and illustrated this with a map, showing the Whitney Lake area and surrounds, where Muriel's relatives, the Rushfeldts, had their home.

Greetings from the Pioneer Circle, which Sid and Muriel have been deeply involved with, were delivered by President Lillian Palinka.

Sid then recalled his early years, and meeting Muriel, when he was teaching for $840 per year. He expressed appreciation for all the good wishes, including the many scrolls and lovely flowers, and particularly the blessing of Muriel, his faithful helpmate through the long years.

Muriel closed the formal speeches, with thanks to all family and friends, both those present and those not able to be there. She urged folks to "make time count for you," and suggested "Life is a bank account - we all make deposits and withdrawals."

Edward Holthe then closed with his own good wishes, and said if life were a bank account, then his parents "had Fort Knox."

A delicious luncheon was then offered, served by the Pioneer Circle ladies, followed by the cake cutting, and genial visiting among the guests.

Holthes Celebrate 50th

Sid and Muriel Holthe were surrounded by children and grandchildren as they celebrated fifty years of happy married life.

Povaschuks mark 50 years

John and Della Povaschuk of Elk Point were joined by friends and family members in celebration of their 50th Wedding Anniversary, on Friday, October 18, 1991.

The reception was an Open House, held in the Extended Care lounge of the Elk Point Hospital, where John has been a resident for some years. A lovely lunch was graciously served by the staff.

Son James, and his wife Lucille, of Elk Point were on hand to help celebrate the event.

John and Della have three sons: Clifford, the eldest, a widower, lives at Ponoka; Robert, the youngest, makes his home in Edmonton with this wife and two children, where he teaches at Harry Ainley School. With Clifford's three children and James and Lucille's three, John and Della have eight grandchildren, in all.

John was born in the Elk Point district, and took his schooling at King George, south of the river, and grew up farming. Della (Robinson) was born at Thornberry, Ontario, and came to Elk Point with her mother and brother, in her late teens. She worked for some years in the old Elk Point Hospital, chiefly as a cook (which included baking ten loaves of bread daily, and much washing of dishes, all by hand, in those days).

John and Della met and kept company for some years before taking the big step. They were married by Rev. Pringle, in the old United Church, on October 20, 1941, attended by Carl Heine-mann and John's sister Mary. Friends and families came to celebrate the event with a dance in the Arnott Hall (which later became the Arrow Theatre).

The happy couple went off for a motor honeymoon to Banff and Lake Louise, before returning home to the serious business of running a farm and making a home for themselves and their family.

Fifty years go by all too quickly, and we wish them many more.

Povaschuks Mark Golden Years

Della and John Povaschuk receive congratulations from Hospital Administrator Clem Johnson, as they mark their 50th Anniversary.

once again for your kind support, acknowledging that today's economic conditions may make this difficult.

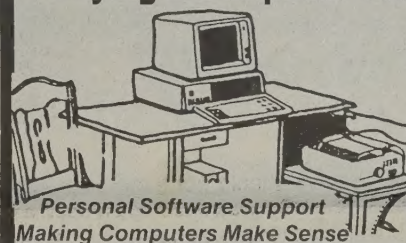

In November, some members in your community will receive a request through the mail to give a new program, a summer camp in Alberta for children with a history of cancer, as well as research and our other community programs. This will be the only mail request that you will receive from us this year.

Please contact Mary Troke, Division Fundraising Coordinator at the Canadian Cancer Society, 1-800-661-2262 if you would like any further information.

We would appreciate your consideration of our direct mail request TOGETHER WE CAN BEAT CANCER!

Amoco Canada, represented by Ron Johnson (right) was thanked for their generous contribution which purchased one of the playground units for the Elementary School and Community Playground, with Don Conrad presenting a plaque in recognition of the donation.

Many hands reaching to help

Irene Magnusson

The Red Cross in Elk Point and district has been active for many years. Saturday, October 19, 1991 was a continuation of that activity, and another successful effort to raise funds for this most worthy cause. All over the world, wherever disaster strikes, Red Cross offers a helping hand. It's good to know we are all a part of that network.

The final total earned by the Annual Tea, Bake Sale, Bazaar and White Elephant Sale, held in the graciously donated United Church Hall, totalled $494.81, while the raffle undertaken brought $690, for a combined amount of $1184.81 - a most respectable sum.

The winner of the embroidered Crazy Quilt was not on hand when the draw was made, but Mrs. Cecile Sadowinsky has since claimed her prize and is very pleased with her good fortune. The second prize went to Donna

Kozicki, also of Elk Point; she, too was pleased to receive her "Secret Pillow," created and donated by Edith Mitchell.

A good crowd showed for the Tea, on a cool but sunny day. All was in readiness at 2:00 p.m., when Rev. Sam Donaldson declared the event open. As an extra bonus, Rev. Donaldson told the gripping story of the origin of Red Cross over a hundred years ago, and of the man who conceived and brought the idea and the action together, making it a work for good in the world, spreading to all comers, among all races, colors and creeds. The name of the founder, Henri Dunant, will long be honored.

Elk Point Red Cross Branch officials thank all persons who donated time, and work, and money. They thank those who sold the many tickets, who baked, and created, and manned the tables. Thanks also to the Lindbergh Red Cross ladies, who pitched in and helped in several ways. And thanks to all who came and "made our day." Your "caring" is on its way.

Secret Pillow Winner

Icons: Sermons in form and color

The town of Elk Point will have some special visitors this Friday when St. Vladimir's Ukrainian Orthodox Church receives a blessing for its new icon screen.

Icons, to the Eastern Orthodox Church, have been described as sermons in form and color, prayers enshrined in painted wood sanctified by the church to assist worshipers in their heavenly ascent.

The early Christian icons were derived from Egyptian funeral portraits commemorating the deceased person's face. Today icons represent the most important events in salvation history and serve as a reminder for small local parishes that they are in communion with the angels and the saints.

Performing the blessing in Elk Point will be the Right Reverend John, Archbishop of Edmonton and the Western diocese of the Ukrainian Orthodox Church of Canada.

Also in attendance will be the artist who created the icons, Andriy Maday who comes all the way from Parma, Ohio.

According to Rev. Demjan Hohol, Maday began work on the icons as a Millennium project in 1987.

Hohol describes Maday as a devout Orthodox Christian, an artist who began dabbling in iconography but realized, due to the sanctity of his art, that he must be committed to his religion.

Iconographers generally live a life that, for lack of a better comparison, is monastic in nature.

"He lives that life," said Hohol. Maday's icons are placed in an icon screen, or wooden frame, designed by Willie Danyluk of Stry.

Hohol described the screen's manufacture as being in a "simple classic manner" which better serves to highlight the icons within.

The blessing of the icon screen will be at 10:00 a.m. November 10. A Pontifical Divine Liturgy will follow at 10:15 with the help of the All Edmonton CYMK Youth Choir.

There will also be a Ukrainian lunch followed by guest speakers including Maday.

Clubs attend championships

On Sunday, October 27, thirteen members of the St. Paul and Elk Point Karate Clubs attended the Japan Karate Federation Canada Championships in Lloydminster. The tournament featured competitors from Saskatoon, Edmonton, Vegreville, Vermilion, Wainwright, Drumheller, Leduc, Cold Lake, North Battleford and Lloydminster as well as those who attended from our area.

The tournament consisted of three events, divided into divisions based on age and level of training.

The first event, Kata, or forms consist of each competitor going through a prearranged series of movements. Weapons Kata consists of competitors going through a sequence of movements with a traditional Japanese weapon such as bo (staff), tonfa, sai or kama. Kata and Weapons Kata are evaluated with each competitor being given a score by each of five judges.

Kumite, or free-style sparring, gives competitors an opportunity to apply their skills in a one-on-one situation. Each match is two minutes and points are awarded for techniques such as punches and kicks being properly executed. A match is won by the first competitor scoring three points or the competitor having the most points at the end of two minutes.

Several of the St. Paul and Elk Point members were successful in their competition. In the Youth Novice Kata, Kelly Peterson of Elk Point took first place. In Kumite, Michelle Leckie of Elk Point won fourth place in the Pee-wee Yellow Belt Division, Tim Mikitka of Elk Point took second place in the Junior Yellow Belt Division and Sean Beattie of St. Paul took second in the Youth Yellow Belt Division.

Two adult beginners were successful in their ventures. Roger Gratton, St. Paul, took fourth place in Men's Novice Kata and third in Men's Novice Ippon Kumite. Rolland Gratton was fourth in Men's Novice Ippon Kumite.

Local instructor Calvin Leckie was successful in his first three matches, then lost out in the finals to end up with second place in Men's Brown Belt Kumite.

The big winner of the day was local instructor Debbie Leckie. She beat all other competitors to take first place in Women's Brown Belt Kumite. She performed a bo (staff) Kata to win first in Women's Advanced Weapons Kata, and performed the Kata, Jion, to take second place in Women's Brown Belt Kata.

Seniors Just Want To Have Fun!

Halloween found the Pioneer Circle floor curlers young at heart and dressed in a variety of innovative costumes for the occasion.

Waiting For The Word Go

Heritage Lodge's pool table was completely covered with baked goods in readiness for the bake sale. Ten minutes after the eager shoppers were given the go-ahead, next to nothing was left to purchase.

Heritage Lodge holds tea

The Elk Point Heritage Lodge Auxiliary held their Annual Pre-Christmas Tea, Bazaar and Bake Sale on Saturday, November 2, 1991, with a huge crowd on hand that watched baked goods disappear rapidly before, wall to wall, anxious, waiting shoppers, who then sat down to enjoy their tea and delicious lunch and visit with their relatives and friends.

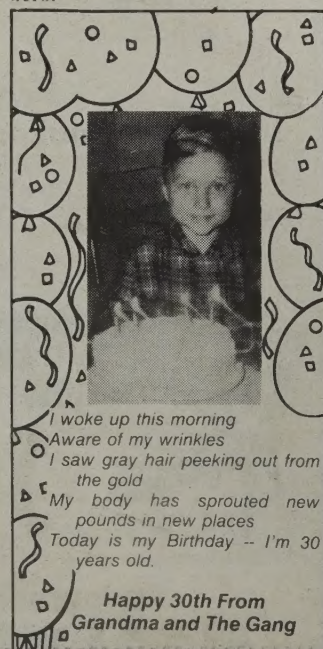

A number of draws were made at the end of the afternoon, with Dean Berg winning the beautiful hooked rug, which was made by our Lodge Residents. The overflowing Food Hamper, donated by the Auxiliary members and staff was won by Les and Karen Scottan. Sharon Lafrance was the winner of the 50/50 draw, and Sue Bykowski, the door prize. Congratulations to all the winners! The Heritage Lodge Auxiliary extend their most heartfelt thanks to all the donors for the raffles, bake and craft table items, cash donations, to our ardent Lodge manager, Alvina Schuhmacher and all the keen Lodge staff for their patience, understanding, and diligent efforts, the efficient cashiers who were kept extremely busy, Lois Ramer for making the beautiful posters and all the very enthusiastic and eager ladies that came to make perogies and nylesnyky. Also many thanks to all that sold tickets, and to

Keeping perspective

Rev. Sam Donaldson

Elk Point United Church

Life's many duties can crowd in upon us with the result that we feel overwhelmed. We lose control and emotional panic takes over the end result is inactivity and a reluctance to attempt the simplest project.

In order to cope with life's many duties we must do two things. First, we must put the big responsibilities of life in the Lord's hands. Second, we must get on with the immediate task at hand.

A Senior Citizen commenced to build a log cabin. His neighbors saw him working on the project and asked him if he was not alarmed at the size of the project that lay before a man of his age.

The elderly gentleman stated if he were to look at the amount of work involved in clearing a lot, cutting hundreds of trees and the many hours required to complete the construction he would be alarmed. But said "I keep my mind on the immediate task of cutting down this one small tree. This one tree is not such a big task and that is all I have to do right now."

Remember the words of the apostle Paul, "this one thing I do". Put life in the Lord's hands and take only one step at a time.

What's news at the library?

The telephone has been ringing and people have been asking whether we have the Great Pumpkin Cookbook for sale. Yes, we do! The 1992 Elk Point Bicentennial Project cookbook has been well promoted. Gordon Morash of the Edmonton Journal reviewed the cookbook last week and a recipe from it appeared in the paper. Billie Milholland was interviewed on Peter Gzowski's cross Canada show on CBC Radio on Halloween day. The cookbook would make a unique Elk Point gift. For every cookbook sold, the Library receives $2 toward their continuing battle against illiteracy.

The cost of the Great Pumpkin Cookbook is $7. Please add $2 postage if you are unable to pick it up. Our address is: Elk Point Public Library, Box 750, Elk

In Memory of Vincent Lawrence October 30, 1989 Not Gone or Forgotten

The leaves are falling
Two years have gone by
Our hearts are still hurting
We find we can't say goodbye.

The pain is still strong
Glimpses of you are everywhere
A granddaughter has your eye color and a son has your twinkle

You were always first, to find the first spring crocus
Your grandson now carries on your tradition.
I accept his bouquet,
Shedding but a single tear
"Mommy, why do you cry".
"It's Grandpa, I see in you, dear."

There are many places you hide
When we least expect it.
You take us by surprise
You are not gone or forgotten
Through us, you live on.

Kristin Kittlitz, 1990-91 editor, presents Owen Dixon of TCC Bottling with a yearbook featuring their advertisement on the back cover, along with thanks for their support.

Parent volunteer needed

The F. G. Miller Parent Teacher Association is looking for a volunteer to help coordinate a Hot Food Program at the school for one day a week during the winter months.

This volunteer need not be a parent of a student attending F. G. Miller.

The duties would include scheduling parents for making lunch one day a week and organizing three days of pyrogy making at the school cafeteria. You don't need to be a cook because many parent volunteers have this knowledge.

The Hot Lunch Program at F. G. Miller with parent volunteers has been very successful since it began two years ago. There are many parents who volunteer their time to help with the cooking. At this point the PTA requires a volunteer who can set up this year's program. Unless someone steps forward to volunteer for this position the students may not get the pyrogy dinners they have enjoyed.

Wapiti yearbooks arrive

The 1990-91 Wapiti Yearbooks arrived at F. G. Miller High School at the beginning of October. They were received with a great amount of enthusiasm by the students and staff. Passed around from student to student, they recalled the past school year with fond memories.

Although the students pay for the publication of the yearbook, the monies collected do not cover the cost of color pages, spot color, enlarging photos, film, developing, and office supplies required in the production of the 80 page book. To cover these additional expenses we turn to the community - the businesses, organizations, and companies in and around Elk Point.

The 1990-91 yearbook staff would like to thank all those sponsors who helped to make the yearbook come alive. Our gratitude to the following for caring enough about the F. G. Miller High School to donate toward the capturing of our memories: Elks and OORP; Stedmans; Wolanuk's; Dave's Pizza; Jeannine's Fashions; Capitol Drugs; Sparky's Oil-field Services; Town of Elk Point; Elk Point and District Lionesses; CarOuell's; Elk Point Review; Elk Point Historical Society; Elk Point Gas; Deborah Grey, MP; Heavy Crude; Lakeland Tire; Pan Canadian Petroleum; Bumper to Bumper; Archie's Auto Repair; Timberline Automotive; Tarsands Steam Cleaning; BMW Monarch; E-Can; Terry Wozniak Turbo; Denny's Auto Body; Amoco Canada; AADAC; Reddi Mart; Higgins Travel; NRS; Vogel's UFA; Dr. Alex Stewart; Shear Beauty Hair Care; Woody's Trophy and Gifts; Michelle's Hair Design; Jorvik; Sears / Watsons; Golden Loaf Bakery; Elk Point Insurance; Empress Dining Lounge; Phil's Home Hardware; TCC Bottling (Coca-Cola).

We would also like to extend a very special thanks to TCC Bottling (Coca-Cola) St. Paul for their back cover advertising, Sheldon Porcina for Mr. Crusader displayed on the front cover, Graphica for donating the color separations and additional artwork on the front cover, Elk Point Review and parents for loaning numerous negatives, and to all the other individuals who in any way helped to make the yearbook a success. A final thank you should be extended to all the students and parents who purchased a 1991 yearbook, for without them, there would be no need to create the book.

Construction of the 1991-92 Wapiti Yearbook is now underway. Advertising space is still available for any business, club or organization interested in supporting F. G. Miller's yearbook. Call Denise Amyotte at 724-3966 for further details.

Peer support for students

F. G. Miller High School's fledgling Peer Support Group was given a strong dose of encouragement by last Tuesday's visit with former school counsellor, Rev. John McGregor.

Rev. McGregor praised the teens for their involvement in the group, and told them, "all your life you will be involved in peer support." Preachers, architects, and those in many other businesses and professions all have peer support groups, although they are called by other names such as professional associations and conventions, he said.

McGregor grew up in Northern Ireland, and was a terrorist at age 17. "Even terrorists have support groups," he quipped. He became involved in terrorist activities to escape a childhood filled with bullying because he was small in size. "I had to prove something...and people don't pick on you when you have a gun in your hand." After two years "in a fool's paradise," a co-worker who cared about his welfare encouraged him to change his ways, and this led to the night "I met the Lord Jesus, who changed my life."

Just as that peer helped the young Irish rebel to become a man of God, each member of the Peer Support Group has "the tremendous potential to help and encourage" their fellow teens. "It's nice to have someone in your corner, on your team."

"Everyone needs love," McGregor said. "We can't always change things [to help someone] but we can say we care. Too often we give things, rather than our time," when time to talk and share is what the recipient needs more.

Another need is for acceptance. "We need to feel accepted 'for me,'" McGregor said, telling the group that he had, as a schoolboy, felt inferior to his brother who "never scored less than 90 per cent on an exam," while his own specialties at school were "soccer and recess. You need to be accepted for yourself, not your family," he said, adding that he "had played soccer for a little while in one of the major leagues."

A third need is for recognition. "Nobody takes time to recognize the little things."

Part of the reason we need the support of peers is because everyone sometimes feels lacking in self respect, due to appearance, ability or environment. "People say, 'if only I'd had a chance.' You ARE somebody, and you do have a chance. Change your world by investing in others," McGregor urged. "Support each other with words and actions."

"It's hard to take a stand for what you believe in," he continued. "Sometimes you have to pay the price, but don't quit. Persevere, and grow in character. You need courage to do, to say and to live what's right."

The Peer Support Group is supervised by teacher Angela Friesen, school counsellor Melanie Ouimet, and volunteer Angie Nelson.
